DNA Certified Herd Requirements

Sign and return form with one-time application fee of $35 to:
Pedigree International, 3326 S. First Road, Humansville, MO 65674

Qualifications - To qualify as a DNA-certified herd with Pedigree International, the following items must be met.

1. All base stock of currently registered goats must be DNA genotyped as a minimum. This includes percentage goats.
2. A copy of these case reports must be provided to Pedigree International so the pedigree certificates can be updated. DNA case codes will not be printed on the certificate and do not convey with the sale of the goat unless freely provided by the seller.
3. Any offspring of your base stock that is registered, can be parentage qualified by DNA from the University of California at Davis goat DNA department upon request from the submitter. A copy of the DNA report will accompany the registration application.

Considerations

1. DNA reports may change your current pedigree. Example: If a sire or dam is excluded by the DNA report, the goat's sire or dam will revert to 0% until a new sire or dam is qualified. If a new sire or dam is unable to be discovered, this change to 0% is permanent. (This situation has already occurred)
2. DNA case codes provided to Pedigree International becomes the property of Pedigree International. PI will not freely provide case codes to other clients. However, there could be a situation that might warrant intervention by PI and the DNA case could be used.

I certify that I have met the above conditions with my herd and do apply for a DNA-certified herd designation to Pedigree International.
